“After graduating from university, you embarked on a celebratory trip with friends to the southwestern tip of England. From the tiny window of your Airbnb in St Ives, the deep, saturated blue of the evening sky caught your eye. You captured that moment in a photo. When you look at it years later, the captivating blue comes alive again, mingled with the scents of fish and chips from the pub below and the lively chatter of your friends in the living room, returning you to those final, carefree moments of your youth—a memory now forever preserved.”
